Libraries in Bologna

available to Johns Hopkins Students

If you need a book or journal that is not available in this library, you should speak with the Research and Instruction Librarian.
They may be able to direct you to a local library or arrange an interlibrary loan (SAIS Europe students only).

Bologna has 50 university libraries and many local libraries. The unified catalog for all of them is available here: https://sol.unibo.it/SebinaOpac/SebinaYOU.do.
Like most European libraries, Bologna University Libraries follow the "closed stack" system whereby the reader requests a book or journal and it is brought to him/her by a library attendant.

If you're looking for a periodical that isn't available at SAIS Europe library or via our online resources, check here for local journal holdings. Note that this link may also show holdings outside Bologna:
https://acnpsearch.unibo.it/.

This handout describes local libraries most relevant to Johns Hopkins' students. The Public Services Librarian has information on more libraries, so please do not hesitate to ask for help.

In addition to JHU access to e-books and e-journals, you can use the Bologna public libraries access to obtain further materials (https://emilib.medialibrary.it/pagine/pagina.aspx?id=135#d1).
Ask your JHU librarian for information on these tools.

Dedicated to the memory, knowledge and practices of feminisms. This Documentation Center was designed by a group of women at the end of the 1970s and has been managed, since 1983, in agreement between the Orlando Association and the Municipality of Bologna. It is now one of the most important documentation centers in the European context.

OUTSIDE BOLOGNA

European University Institute

www:	biblio.eui.eu
Address:	via dei Roccettini, 5 - 50016, San Domenico di Fiesole (Florence)

The European University Institute was established in 1976 by the member states of the European Communities and is funded by them as an institute for post-graduate research. The collection is especially well endowed with material relating to European history, sociology, finance and economics and international law. The library is also a depository for European Union publications.

NOTE: Although this is a closed library for European University Institute researchers and faculty, SAIS Europe students may, on presentation of a letter of introduction, consult the collection and make photocopies of material they require. Individual SAIS Europe students may not borrow books from the EUI library. Please speak to your library staff if you wish to arrange to receive an item from the EUI on inter-library loan.
